Restaurant Technologies, Inc.
Opens Depot to Serve San Francisco Market

MINNEAPOLIS, February 10, 2006 – Restaurant Technologies, Inc. (RTI), a leading provider of bulk cooking oil management services to the restaurant industry, is pleased to announce that the company is opening a depot in Hayward, California.

To celebrate the opening of the Hayward depot, RTI will hold a ribbon cutting at 11:00 a.m. on Wednesday, February 15th. Attending the Grand Opening will be Jeffrey Kiesel, chief executive officer, and Paul Plooster, RTI's president, along with other RTI executives. Additionally, City of Hayward dignitaries have been invited to attend the event.

Jim Ryan, general manager, will oversee the facility and its operations, which is located at 1236 San Luis Obispo Avenue. The Hayward depot will service RTI customers in roughly a 100 mile radius including the cities of San Francisco, Oakland, San Jose and as far south as Monterey and into the northern Napa region.

RTI has strategically located depots throughout the United States to support its customers, which include companies in the fast food industry, restaurants, grocery stores, school, hospitals and other food service providers. A depot serves as the distribution center for delivering new cooking oil and housing waste oil. Currently, RTI has 28 depots nationwide with plans to expand to 36 by the end of 2006.

"We are pleased to expand our operations into the San Francisco market," said Jeffrey R. Kiesel, chief executive officer at Restaurant Technologies, Inc. "Our customer base is growing and we believe RTI can provide more efficient delivery and service by opening this new facility. We look forward to be a part of the Hayward business community."
